

Horizontal Canvas Viewer Program Information

Quick Start:

Make any number of JPG images 400w x 300h in size.

Name them sequentially (ex. 1.jpg, 2.jpg, 3.jpg110.jpg)

Put them in the 'ARTWORKS' folder

Rename the web page file to reflect the number of images in the ARTWORKS folder, the name portion can be renamed to anything you like. (ex. If you have 12 JPG images in the ARTWORKS folder, the name of the file can be MyVacation-12.html, or lookATthis-12.htm or skydiving-12.html, etc.)

Open the web page in any browser to view your images

Full Viewer Information:

The downloaded zip file contains the following:

- A folder named 'CBACKS'; this folder contains additional backgrounds that can be changed from within the viewer while it is playing. This folder must not be renamed.
- A folder named 'ARTWORKS', which is where you would put all of your images. This folder must not be renamed. The folder contains 3 of our images as examples. You would replace them with your own images .

The 'ARTWORKS' folder can contain as many jpg images as you want to view.

The images must be 400 pixels wide by 300 pixels tall.

This viewer is for horizontal images only. There is a vertical image player also available for download on our site.

Name the images sequentially (ex. 1.jpg, 2.jpg, 3.jpg110.jpg)

- The Flash viewer program named 'EXHIBITIONH.SWF'. This file must not be renamed.
- A web page that shows the viewer program. It can be played from your computer's hard drive or be put online and linked to. Just remember to keep the web page, ARTWORKS folder, CBACKS folder and EXHIBITIONH.SWF in the same directory or folder, in order to operate properly.

You can rename this web page file to anything you would like as long as the extension is a standard web page extension (ex .htm, .html, .shtml). The file name also reflects the number of images that you've put in the 'ARTWORKS' folder.

For example, if you wanted to call the page MyDogAndCat and you had 14 images in the folder. You would name the file MyDogAndCat-14.html.

Note: Between the name and the number is a standard hyphen -

- This PDF document
-

Viewer controls:

You can select different backgrounds by clicking on this button. Thumbnail images will appear. Select the one you like and the images will be displayed on that background.

The viewer can display your images automatically by selecting any of the speed buttons. They range from slow to fast. You go back to manual advance by clicking on the black 'Off' button.

The number of the image that you are viewing and the total number of images in the 'ARTWORKS' folder is displayed on the control panel.

The red, green and blue paint drops will navigate the images by going backward, going forward and going to the first image respectively.

There are three transitions between images that you can select. No transition, Fade transition and Paint transition.

